The Year in Review

On behalf of the Board of Directors and the Museum of Wisconsin Art (MOWA) staff, it is with much anticipation that we present the 2012 Annual Report. This year was a pivotal time for the museum, as it encompassed the construction of the NEW MOWA and marked the transition to new museum leadership.

Construction at 205 Veterans Avenue started in April 2012, and very quickly the triangular-shaped structure began to take shape. Exterior walls were up by mid-summer, and the white tiles that now make the wedge shape so recognizable were installed. Hard-hat tours for numerous donors and stakeholders throughout the construction process allowed them to see first-hand the dream of the new MOWA become a reality. Fundraising for the new building reached a feverish pace by year end.

A year of exceptional weather made construction go smoothly and even finish early. On December 14, 2012 the museum took building occupancy. Back at the old building, staff and volunteers had been preparing for months to move offices and the over 4,000 works of art. With incredible organization and planning, the museum was poised to move to its new home in late January 2013.

Amidst the construction, in the summer of 2012, MOWA Executive Director Tom Lidtke announced his retirement after 30 years of dedicated service to MOWA, a career that set the stage for the new building. A national search for a new director began, and on November 26, 2012, Laurie Winters officially began her new role as MOWA Executive Director | CEO. Having served 16 years at the Milwaukee Art Museum, most recently as Director of Exhibitions and Publications, Laurie has an extensive background in working with stakeholders to translate innovative ideas into successful programs that attract significant audiences and patronage.

There’s no question, 2012 was a transformational year for MOWA. We are deeply grateful to all who have been so dedicated to MOWA, its mission, and the new building. MOWA has an exciting and bright future ahead.

Construction

In April 2012, Mortenson Construction (Brookfield, WI), general contractor for the new museum building, began construction at 205 Veterans Avenue. Exceptional weather and an efficient construction crew made the building process run smoothly and finish early. On December 14, 2012 the museum took building occupancy.

Designed by Jim Shields of HGA Architects (Milwaukee, WI), the new building takes on the triangular shape of the site, which was created by the meandering Milwaukee River. The building fits the site specifically, even reflecting the slight curve of the river in the gentle curve of the building’s façade. The contemporary 31,000 square foot building includes nearly 12,000 square feet of gallery space, approximately 7,000 square feet of facility rental space for special events, a gift shop, two education studios, and an outdoor sculpture garden.

Construction Committee

We would like to extend a special thank you to our building committee whose leadership helped deliver the new facility on time and on budget.

Financial Report

In 2012, MOWA finished the construction of its new facility, valued upon completion at more than $9 million, and prepared to move the art and staff into the new building in early 2013. The summarized financial information reflects year-end results for the museum’s operations in 2012 and 2011. During these transitional years, which were shaped by a focus on construction, fundraising, and modified operations, operating budget deficits were covered by sufficient cash reserves.

2012 Education

Wisconsin History and Visual Arts Program

In 2012, MOWA launched the “Wisconsin History and Visual Arts” program for 4th graders. The program, supported by the 4th grade Wisconsin State Standards of Social Studies, Visual Arts, and Language Arts, uses Wisconsin's rich art heritage together with lessons about the state’s history from the school curriculum. It offers area 4th graders the opportunity to experience works of art, to learn about the history of Wisconsin and the impact its residents have on the environment, politics, art movements, and the economy, and to develop language arts skills in a museum setting.

Generously funded in part by the Greater Milwaukee Foundation's Mary L. Nohl Fund, MOWA was able to offer this program free of charge to schools throughout Washington, Ozaukee, and Milwaukee counties, including free bus transportation to and from the museum. The program format includes three parts: a teacher orientation at the museum, an art educator-led school tour at MOWA, and a follow-up school visit from MOWA education staff and volunteers.

The museum is eager to expand the reach of this program in 2013.
SPARK!

SPARK!, a monthly museum cultural program for adults with memory loss and their caregivers, offers the opportunity to share an enriching museum experience together. Held within the museum’s galleries, trained presenters and artists provide an engaging morning of art discussion, highlighting selected themes, artists, and exhibitions, and hands-on activities. Funded in part by a grant from the Helen Bader Foundation of Milwaukee, SPARK! is a free program for homebound or facility day-service adults with memory loss and their caregivers.

Capital Campaign Donors

Capital campaign donors listed below reflect the museum’s early and most generous contributors, whose leadership launched the construction of the new facility in 2012. The board and staff deeply appreciate everything these contributors have done to make the new museum a reality.
