Every day we embrace patterns—on our clothes, in music, even our city streets are laid out in patterns. We'll combine our individual designs into one collective arrangement. We'll also welcome back goldendoodle therapy dog, Maggie!

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19 | 10:00–11:30 POST OFFICE ART

During the 1930s and 1940s, 35 murals were commissioned for post offices around Wisconsin, some of which are no longer available for public viewing. This month we'll take a closer look at Ruth Grotenroth's Unloading a River Barge (1943) which was commissioned for the Hudson Post Office and then create art inspired by it.
